OBITUARY.

Joseph Francis McDade. After a painful illness lasting for several months, Joseph Francis Mcseveral months, Joseph Francis Mc-Dade passed away at his late home on North Main street Friday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock. Bright's disease was the cause of his death. He was born in Greeneville December 23, 1881, and was the son of James and Catherine McDade. He had always lived in this place up to four years ago, when he took a position with the Underwood Typewriter company in Hartford. He was well thought of by his employers in that place and was popular among his friends about town, who will greatly regret his loss.

He possessed a quiet and somewhat reserved disposition, but had a large circle of friends, whose deepest sympathies go out to the afflicted family in their great bereavement.

Earl Beshor to Be at Hospital for Three Weeks.

The condition of young Earl Beshor, who stepped on a sharp scythe Thursday evening, while walking along Torrance's ledge, and cut his leg in a bad manner, was reported last evening to be as favorable as could be expected under the circumstances. He was operated upon early Friday morn-ing at the W. W. Backus hospital and it was found that all of the tendons in the back part and side of the leg had been cut through to the bone. He will probably be confined to the hospital, so his doctor stated, for at least three weeks.

EVERYBODY HAPPY. Young Man Didn't Mind Jam Under the Circumstances.

Trolley cars bearing picnic parties to a picnic grounds are not usually looked upon as ideal spots for levers, to a picnic grounds are not usurily looked upon as ideal spots for lovers, but there is one young man, who doubtless believes they are quite the priper thing for a "feller" and his girl. He was one of a Norwich Sunday school picnic which came down here today by special car, says Friday's New London Day.

The car was loaded to the "gunwales" with men, women and children—in fact, it seemed as if half New London county were on it. The loo of our little tale was sitting crusted like summer fruit against one of the side ralls. Ordinarily he would have been peeved, but he wasn't, for in his lap sat a girl of the peaches and cream variety, quite the finest looking girl the picnic sported, and he was keeping her from falling out by putting both arms around her waist. That was why he wore a satisfied smile even though as the car took each turn he was given a fresh thrust smile even though as the car took each turn he was given a fish thrust or two from an elbow or a kick from a leg. He did not tire of the situation all the ride and did not even once call for help or for a substitute. Sunday school picnics, by the Ty. will always look good to George from this day forth.
